

the future workforce challenge

Launched with Human Times and orgvue, this challenge asked which workforce planning scenario a business would like help with to predict the future of their workforce.

"Which workforce planning scenario would you like help predicting the future on?"

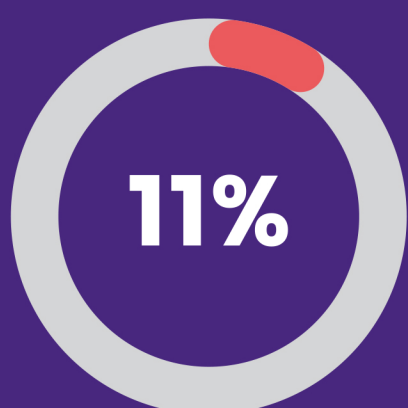

Realigning workforce to new business objectives

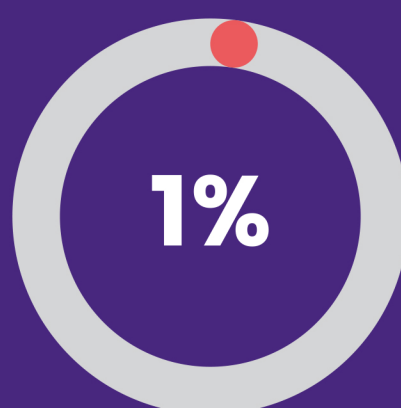

Improving workforce productivity

Optimizing across full time, part time, contract and consultants

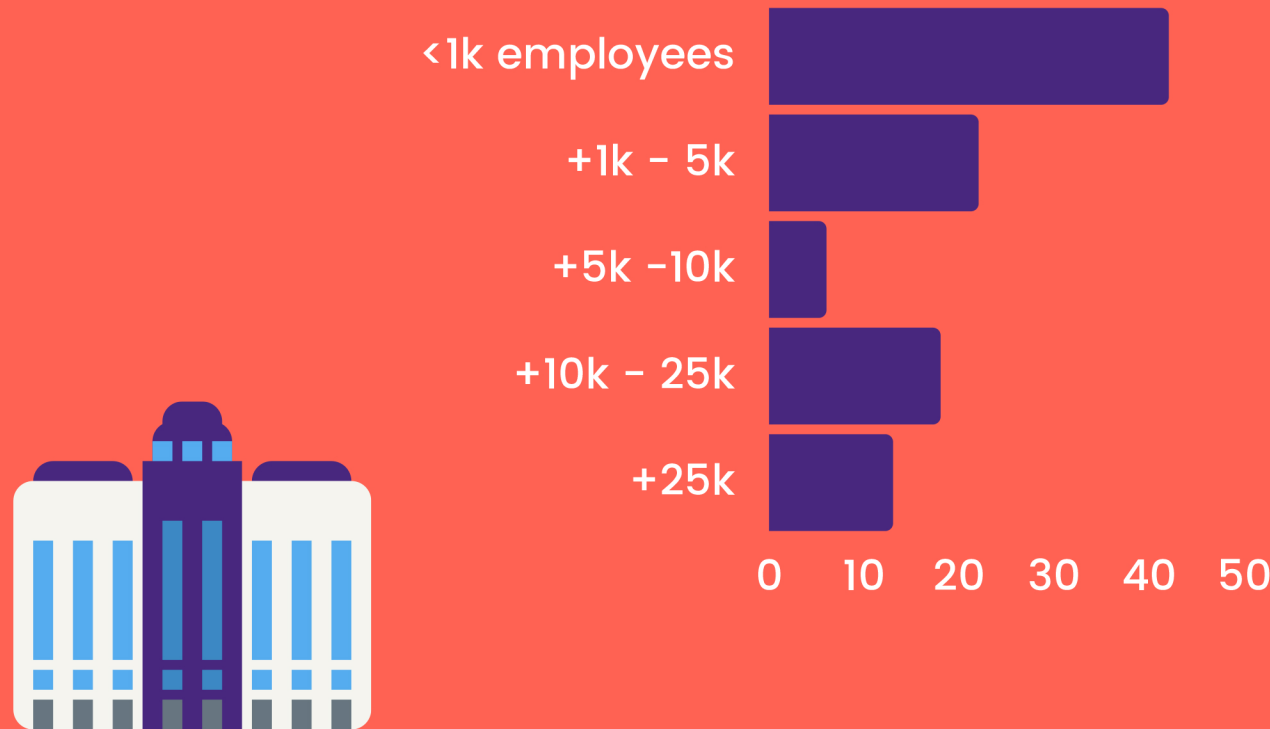

Impact of increased automation on workforce

Managing mergers and acquisitions

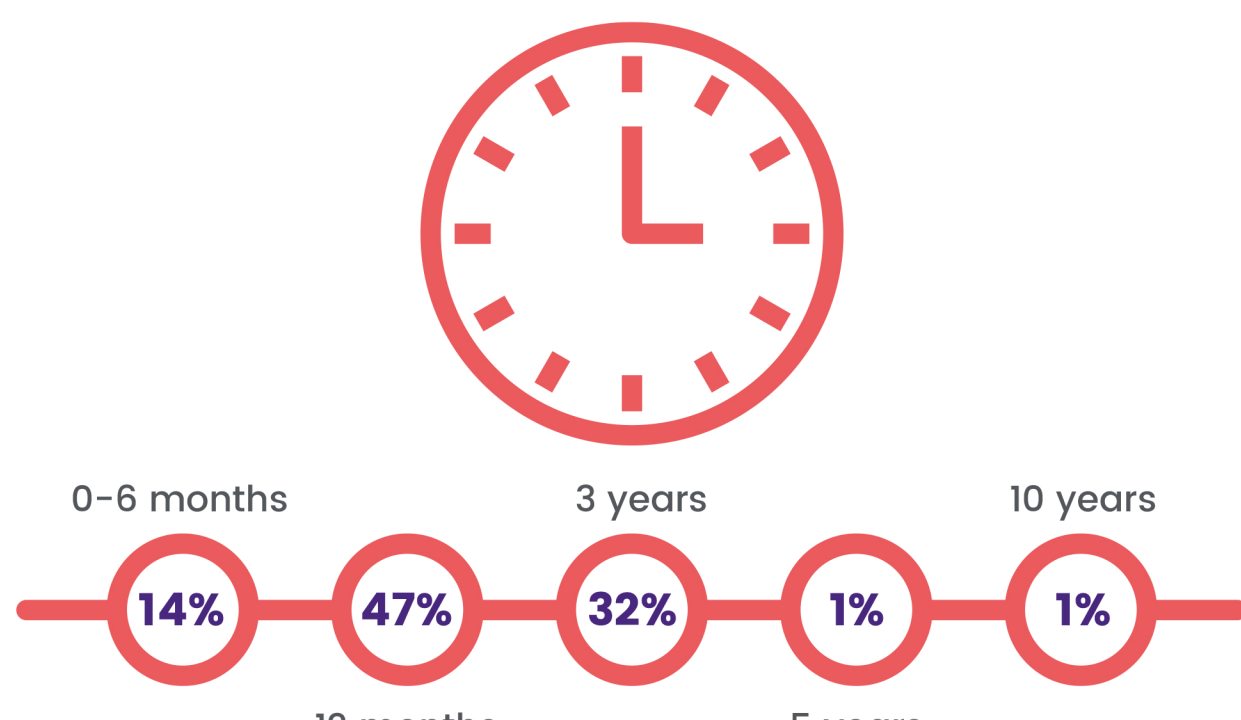

"What is the current size of your organization?"

"What percentage of your workforce do you expect to be working remotely in the next 12 months?"

"Currently, over what time period do you think you could map future scenarios effectively?"

The most effective organizations know they're attracting the right people, doing the right work, at the right time, with the right skill set.

Using data-driven workforce planning, they can make critical decisions without fear and are able to drive effective change with confidence.

