

Talent Selection and Transition Management

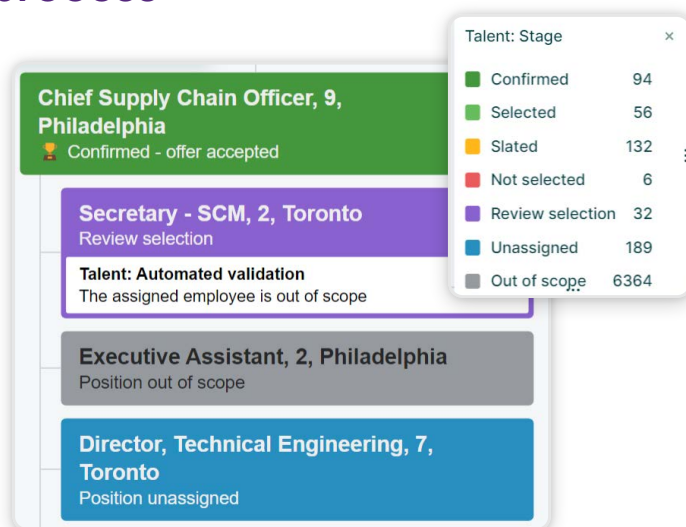

Confidently transition to your future organization

Managing your talent selection process

When implementing significant workforce changes, allocating the right people to the right positions is crucial to the success of the future organization.

But mapping thousands of employees to thousands of roles presents a significant challenge. Planners must consider various criteria, such as critical skills, financial planning, location preference, tenure, performance, and more, which often entails sifting through vast amounts of data scattered across multiple platforms.

To streamline the process, they need a platform which consolidates all relevant data, enables them to visualize it, and empowers them to confidently make changes and transition to their future design.

▲ Visualizing different stages of the talent selection exercise in Orgvue

Why Orgvue?

Orgvue allows you to confidently manage the complex 'many-to-many' relationship across people and positions.

The technology can handle large amounts of data, and brings multiple data sources in one place so you can visualize elements such as your talent supply and demand, required FTE (full-time-equivalent), gaps in your structure, critical skills, preferences, etc.

It then allows you to strategically allocate the right talent to the right role, for a fast and effective transition process.

3. Review the impact of decisions an execute your plan

See the financial impact of your models at a granular level, then roll-up to ensure they adhere to your design principles (culture, financial planning, diversity and equal opportunity).

Finally, feed your plan into your HRIS system for execution, assign responsibility to the right implementation team, and show them how they fit into the bigger picture to drive better buy-in to actioning your plan.
